

* PRESS RELEASE ****

For release 15 September 2006

Immogenics launches a partnership with Incorpore and the International Fitness Club Network, to offer discounted health membership to all Immogenics' new customers

As the UK Government steps up its efforts to mobilise the population to take responsibility for their health, Immogenics, the medical diagnostics Company, is showing its continued commitment to their customers' health and well-being. Every NOVO and VITA customer will automatically receive free membership to the Incorpore network of fitness clubs. Initially in the UK only, this will roll out across Immogenics' International franchises in 2007. The deal will ensure Immogenics' customers optimise their health and also receive the lowest available corporate membership to their local gym, with savings of up to £200.00 per annum.

Physical activity can help reduce blood pressure, lower cholesterol levels and has been linked to reducing risk of heart disease. Exercise is a great de-stressor and it can help to lift your mood – the body releases 'feel good' hormones when we exercise. People who are regularly active are often more positive, optimistic and motivated. Immogenics are excited to be part of the new breed of healthcare organisations which focus primarily on prevention and health optimisation, rather than cure and risk mitigation.
