IMMOGENICS

Print this Article

Immogenics is a medical diagnostic company which seeks to empower and educate people about health matters.

NOVO, Immogenics' nutritional product, is a personalised blood analysis and eating plan based on a thorough investigation of your sensitivity to different foods and their impact on your immune/energy matrix.

Foods are known to impact immunity either positively by strengthening, or negatively by activating the immune system. By diagnosing foods that trigger an immune response and eliminating them from your diet, you can optimise your body's ability to metabolise fats and sugars.

I lost nearly 2 stones on the programme and was pleased with how much energy I had gained. I would certainly recommend the NOVO programme to people seeking to control their weight and optimise their wellbeing. Also crucial for me, it didn't involve either starvation or eating rabbit food.

Immogenics' second product, VITA, is a health check that provides people with key metabolic benchmarks as well as male/female specific tests, a yearly MOT type product. VITA promotes the value that prevention is better than cure.

To find out more about either the NOVO programme or VITA, click on the logo below and visit Immogenics' website.

Alternatively give their Help Desk a call on 0845 226 5858.
